Join us for a LUNG FORCE Expo!

This special one-day educational program brings together patients, caregivers and advocates with leading lung health experts to learn about cutting-edge treatments, medications, resources and research to fight lung cancer and other lung diseases.

At the LUNG FORCE Expo, you'll find:

- Educational programs for patients, caregivers and professionals
- Inspirational speakers
- Exhibitors and supporters
- Materials and resources
- Continuing education credit

2 Great Programs:

Patient Education Our patient educational track is designed for adult lung disease patients and their caregivers to give them the confidence and tools they need to stay connected and become advocates for their own healthcare.

Professional Education Our professional agenda is developed to keep lung health professionals current on the latest research, trends, recommendations and treatments on lung cancer, COPD, asthma and other respiratory issues so they can better support their patients.

Continuing Education Credits This activity has been submitted to the Connecticut Nurses Association (CNA), the American Association for Respiratory Care (AARC), the National Association of Social Workers – Rhode Island Chapter (NASW-RI) and the National Commission for Health Education Credentialing, Inc. (NCHEC for CHES) for approval to award contact hours.

3 Excellent Reasons to Attend:

1. Learn important lung disease information. You'll find out about the latest trends, resources and research surrounding lung cancer, COPD, asthma and other respiratory issues.
2. Share a meaningful experience with others who are fighting lung disease. You'll meet individuals whose lives have been impacted by lung disease as well as experts and advocates for lung health.
3. Care for yourself and others by expanding your lung disease knowledge. Educational tracks are available for patients and caregivers AND health professionals. Plus you'll see exhibitors showcasing products and services.
